

Modern Store To Replace Business Block

TENANTS ORDERED TO VACATE AND CONSTRUCTION TO START SOON

The store building occupied by Mac & Gidley drug store, B. A. Cooley Economy store and the Blanche Hull beauty parlor, will be razed and in its place will be built a new modern brick business block. The building is owned by H. Hanson and A. J. Nelson. Tenants were requested first of the week to vacate the premises so that workmen may get busy with the work of dismantling.

Under the present plans it is expected that the new structure will be finished and ready for occupancy by the middle of July. It will be but one story high with full basement, and modern heating and lighting plants and modern arrangements.

It is understood that when finished that Mac & Gidley drug store and the A. J. Nelson store will occupy the building.

Just at this time the occupants of the present building are wondering as to where they can move and continue their business uninterrupted. There is only one store building at present available—the Prudean grocery building on Peninsular avenue back of the Olsen-Drug store.

With the completion of the proposed structure, Grayling's main street appearance will be vastly improved. It is just this kind of hitting the nail on the head that is making Grayling the liveliest of Northern Michigan cities and insures steady growth and increasing prestige. Today Grayling is the most aggressive and enterprising city of anywhere near its size in Northern Michigan. While we can hardly agree with our sincerely respected predecessor—Dr. Oscar Palmer—that Grayling is the "Only Town on the Map," still we do claim that Grayling is the Best Town on the Map.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT LEAGUE

After the business session of the Civic Improvement League held Monday evening, and conducted by the president, Mrs. Frank Barnett, the league discussed various plans for the summer's program.

The bad appearance of our cemetery was discussed at length. Surely Grayling people would welcome an aroused public sentiment toward making a beauty spot of what is now an ill kept, shabby place. A cemetery should be a credit to a town or township and with a little effort ours could be greatly improved.

Rose moss has been adopted as the town flower, to be used along the banks of the AuSable as well as around trees in yards. It needs little care and thrives even in dry weather. Two weeks from last Monday will be election of officers. Come out and show an interest in the officers of your Civic league.

PROHIBITION REFORMERS TO HOLD MEETING

The annual meeting of the W. O. N. P. R. of Michigan (Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform)—will be held Tuesday, May 15th at 2:30 P. M. at the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit. Important issues are to be decided at this meeting. New name, election of directors, future activities in Temperance Education and Liquor Control Laws to be discussed, appointment of Survey and Co-operative Committees.

We need your presence and your opinion. Please realize that every woman who desires Temperance and who is a member of the W. O. N. P. R. should attend this meeting.

To Use P. W. A. Funds For Battleships

Activities under the P. W. A. promise to take a new turn, since the President will ask permission from Congress to divert about 35 million dollars at once from the funds of that organization for the building of a score of warships, the program calling for an ultimate outlay of approximately 135 millions.

The first extensive construction of naval war machines since the world conflict, will of course mean that many idle plants will go into production, with a corresponding demand for labor and materials.

Whether or not there is anything else back of the ship building program is not known, and is not likely to be published. The fact however remains that the world is just a little disturbed over Japan's announcement that she regards herself as the best judge of what ought to be done in China.

Possibly the United States may participate in the general uneasiness over the stand which Japan has taken. If that is true, a few more war craft may come in handy.

O. W. Hanson Heads Local Golf Club

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MAY 8TH

Oscar W. Hanson was elected president of the Grayling Golf club at the annual meeting held in the club rooms Tuesday night. E. J. Olson was elected vice president; George Olson secretary, and Roy O. Milnes, treasurer. For several years past Fred R. Welsh has been the president of the club but declined to accept the responsibility again this year. Also Margaret Hemmingson is the retiring secretary.

The following directors whose terms of office expired with this meeting were re-elected: H. W. Wolff, E. J. Olson and O. W. Hanson.

The charges for green fees this year will be 35c for nine holes; 50c for 18 holes and 75c for all day. Annual dues will remain the same as last year—$25.00. Work of getting the course in condition for use will be begun at once and it is hoped to get the course open for full use soon. Some of the members are already using the fareways and getting a lot of pleasure out of it. The greens and tees, however, are not ready for use at this time.

West Branch Thanks People Of Grayling

West Branch, Michigan
May 4, 1934

Holger F. Peterson, Pres.
Winter Sports Ass'n, Grayling, Mich.

Dear Mr. Peterson:

In behalf of the people of West Branch and the West Branch Trout Festival committee, I want to extend to the people of Grayling our sincerest thanks for the splendid cooperation rendered in connection with the 1934 Trout Festival. The assistance rendered aided greatly in the success of the event and we are happy to acknowledge the fact.

From all indications the co-operative spirit shown in connection with the Festival has sounded a new note in the spirit of Northeastern Michigan and we sincerely believe that if we will continue to play together and work together, that we will be able to accomplish great things in behalf of this region, and that means that we will profit together too.

I am not going to attempt to thank each of your good people individually and am asking that this letter be used as a means of expressing our sincerest thanks to every citizen of Grayling who participated in making our Festival a success.

Please be assured that when Grayling is ready to use our services, we will be on hand to help. With kindest personal regards I am,

Sincerely yours,
H. W. Schultz,
General Chairman.

SCHOOL NOTES

Mr. Bond has been absent the past week due to scarlet fever quarantine. However, he returned this morning to again resume his duties as science teacher.

With the arrival of spring and warm weather comes baseball. People all over the country thrill to the umpires' "Batter up!" and the crack of the bat. Grayling is no exception.

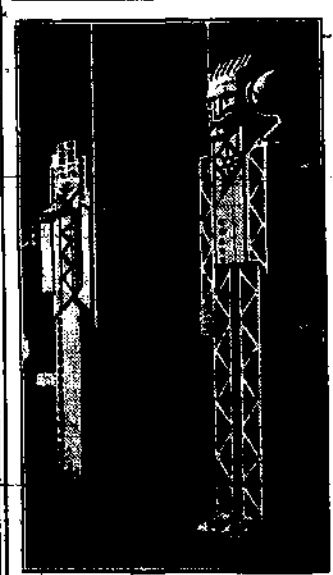

Mr. Cornell has organized four soft-ball intramural leagues and the big series will begin soon. These four leagues take in practically the whole school in different divisions, according to age and sex. There are two girls leagues, one for the upper five grades and one for the lower grades and two boys leagues divided in the same manner.

Play has not begun yet, but the schedules will be out shortly, and until that time, everyone is waiting, more or less patiently.

Mr. Wells, now of our local fire department and formerly of a Detroit fire department, gave a very interesting and instructive talk to the students of the High school last Wednesday afternoon on fire prevention and causes.

He told of many causes of fire that are not commonly known although they are common causes and of ways to prevent them.

Greet Children

Treatie Mike and Skyrooper Sally, two fantastic figures which guard the gates to the Enchanted Island, children's playground at the new World's Fair which opens in Chicago May 28. The playground has been completely changed with the exception of price. These will be as low as last year.

A GREAT VACATION YEAR

FORECASTS for the coming spring and summer are usually concerned with business conditions. But there's one field that has been overlooked in most of the prophecies so far, and we might as well get in on it right now. It looks as if it ought to be a great year for vacations, and in that respect, Bay City and northern Michigan are fortunate.

More people are at work, incomes are higher, business firms are doing better, and there is a lot more leisure time. Add all this together, stir in a dash of hot weather, and you get a booming vacation season.

And in that connection it's worth pointing out that the people of Michigan and surrounding areas, are exceedingly lucky, when it comes to holidays. They have so many places to go, and the ways of getting there are so very pleasant.

If you take your vacation in your own car, you have the world's finest network of smooth, well-cared-for highways, studded with hotels, camping sites, garages, and service stations.

Michigan seems to have been designed especially as a vacation ground.

Whatever direction you choose—whether you turn east, north, west, or south, or stay right in the middle—you can find pleasant scenery, good accommodations, and hospitable people.

You can take the rolling, pastoral beauty on the Lake Huron drive or the rolling sand dune hills of the Lake Michigan shore or the gorgeous, thrilling hills of the central part of the north half of the lower peninsula—it doesn't matter, they're all good, and no matter where you live or plan to go in Michigan, a good vacation spot is always easily accessible.

The old slogan, "See America First," can be changed to "See Michigan First," and be about as sound a bit of advice as you could get.

Every summer we turn into a nation of nomads. It's a fine, healthy tendency.

One of the best things about our returning prosperity is the fact that it will get an increasing number of us wandering about our country this summer.—Bay City Daily Times.

POTPOURRI

Can Fish Feel?
Certainly. Any living animal organism has feeling, but the amount of feeling differs in various forms of life. A fish sees, it hears, it smells, and it tastes—all of which are qualities of feeling. However, the very simple brain which the fish possesses causes its sense of feeling to be very limited.

WHY A COMMUNITY NEWS-PAPER?

Contest sponsored by Adrian Van Kesteren of Zeeland, Michigan.

(By Miss Minnie Cook, Beiding, Mich.—Favorable Mention)

Our topic, "Why a Community Newspaper," brings a smile, and we find ourselves wondering just now a community could exist without a newspaper. We scarcely realize now much our newspaper means to us—we have become so used to its weekly visits that, like the air we breathe, we take it for granted. But when an extra good number for instance, at Christmas time, comes to our attention—then we wake up to the fact that we have a really alive editor who feels that the best is none too good for our community.

Should you chance to have a member of your immediate family taken suddenly and seriously ill, and it becomes necessary for you to call in the family physician, he might, by watching his patient closely, come to some conclusion regarding the case; but the physician does not wait for this. He watches carefully, the patient's pulse and is thus enabled to handle his case more satisfactorily. Should a business firm consider the possibility of locating in your city—like the physician, he would take the pulse of that city which, necessarily would be the community newspaper. He would study its pages carefully. Of necessity he would be bringing his family to your city and would note whether your schools were adequate, whether there was a hospital available in time of need; also he would be interested to know if the church of his choice had its weekly program in its pages. He would take special note of the coming events. In other words, he would seek to know if your city had an upward trend—was progressive, would co-operate with him in helping to make his business a success. Special notice would be taken of your want column and of your ads as any business, to be alive, must advertise.

Then there are the always welcome letters from farmer residents dwelling at length on the fact that they have—so enjoyed our community newspaper which seems like a breath from home. They have either subscribed for the paper or are enjoying it through the kindness of. Through its pages we are often so fortunate as to locate a friend or a relation, who, through the years has been lost to us. Our editor, necessarily a genial, kindly man, else he could not successfully cope with the problems that arise from week to week, always aims to write his news-articles from such an optimistic angle that they are an inspiration to the reader. Then, in the fall before our school opens we celebrate Labor Day or Homecoming Day. It is the community newspaper with its glad invitation that leads into the by-ways and hedges and invites the people back to their home-town, back to renew acquaintances of by-gone days. Many come with baskets and there are family reunions and glad hearts and the community spirit is strengthened and still you persist in asking and need I tell you more?

Why a community newspaper? Just scan these pages over. It has proved itself a friend in need, and we love it more and more.

50th Anniversary Of Ferris Institute

The fiftieth anniversary of Ferris Institute will be observed with an unusual commencement program May 17. Pres. at Ernest E. Brown has announced. Dr. W. D. Henderson, of the University of Michigan, one of the first students at Ferris, will give the address. In the afternoon Mr. Charles Carlisle, oldest instructor at the school, will conduct a special assembly for alumni, after which they will be served a large reunion banquet.

More than 100 students from the pharmacy, commercial, junior college, normal and college preparatory schools of the Institute will participate in the combined commencement, which begins at 8:00 P. M.

In his speech to the graduates, Dr. Henderson will undoubtedly mention his days as a student here in the early nineties, showing by contrast the many changes that have taken place. Dr. Henderson founded the Ferris school of pharmacy and directed it for many years. He is now head of the extension department at the University.

"Morning exercises" as they were called by former students, will be held at 4:00 in the afternoon this time. For nearly half a century school was opened each day at 8 o'clock with a 30 minute program, presided over for many years by Mr. Carlisle. He states, however, that much more time will be required to present this program. A year ago daily assemblies were changed to twice a week.

Mr. Carlisle has a record of forty-two years of continuous teaching at Ferris, and has taught more courses than any other instructor, his subjects including everything from languages and public speaking to physical education. He is now 82.

The banquet to be served at 5:30, immediately after assembly, will inaugurate this function as an annual reunion for alumni. Elaborate preparations are being made, and a special program for it is being organized this week.

This commencement will mark the fiftieth anniversary of Ferris Institute. The school was founded by the late Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris in 1884. Started in a few rooms downtown, the Institute rapidly grew large enough for a site of its own. Several additions were made to the main plant in succeeding years, the most recent of which is the $130,000 Alumni building donated by former students.

The Central State Teachers College at Mt. Pleasant is being provided for by taxes collected by the sales tax.

Lake Margrethe is the correct name of what was once known as Portage Lake. Recently the Avalanche called attention to conflicting highway signs posted on the highway bordering Lake Margrethe. One was correct and the other gave the name as Portage Lake. This was conflicting to tourists who may have been looking for Lake Margrethe, and finding there a sign reading Portage Lake. Tony Nelson, county superintendent of state highways, got busy on the matter and found no records in the township nor county showing that the name had been changed officially. He took the matter up with the state and federal governments and was informed that the official name was Lake Margrethe, and they were surprised to learn that this change had not been recorded in the county. Mr. Nelson did a good job in clearing up this matter and says that the "Portage Lake" sign will be removed.

establishment here in 1927. The teaching of formulas for marble-part of the business of the insti-

TO OPEN NEW FAIR MAY 26

Lower Cost to Visitors; 84 Miles of Free Exhibits.

Chicago.—A new World's Fair will open here May 26.

It is not simply an encore of the 1933 Century of Progress Exposition. In addition to many startling new features it retains all those of last year's Fair that were too important and popular to leave out—but even they have been enlarged, changed and improved.

This summer's Fair will cost little to see and little to get to. There are 84 miles of interesting free exhibits. The Exposition will look after the visitor's comfort hospitably, efficiently and inexpensively. Last year the average visitor spent only $1.17 a day inside the grounds.

World's Greatest Fountain.

Workmen have torn down more than 100 of the old buildings. New ones have replaced them. The entire physical appearance is different, with new color and new landscaping everywhere. New lighting effects at night, even more dazzling than those of the 1933 Fair, surpass anything of the kind ever attempted anywhere. Scores of new exhibits have been added, one of them the largest ever built. Virtually every exhibit held over has undergone considerable change.

Comparable to the Ferris wheel of the 1893 Fair, and the Sun Wheel of 1904, the outstanding new feature is the largest fountain ever built. It has a flow of water sufficient to serve a city of 1,000,000 population, and its spectacular lighting, in five colors, draws as much current as an average city of 10,000.

Visitors "Tour World." Fifteen "foreign villages" twelve of them new, all of them gathered after the lovely Belgian village of the 1933 Fair, make the Exposition more truly worthy of the name "World's Fair" than any predecessor ever was. They offer the visitor the unique opportunity of making, in effect, a tour of the world in a single day.

Eleven of the villages are on a street of their own, where the Midway stood last year. The old Midway has disappeared and a new and more thrilling one has been built on the Northern Island beach.

On the street of foreign villages are reproductions of life and scenes in North Africa, England, the German Black Forest, Colonial America, Ireland, Italy, Spain, Belgium, Paris and Spain; there is also a village devoted entirely to modern life. Elsewhere on the Fair grounds are a Dutch village, a Swiss village, a Mexican village and the Streets of Shanghai.

Ford, Packers New. Now to the Fair is the exhibit of the Ford Motor company, with its $1,500,000 exposition of the drama and progress of transportation, spread over eleven acres. Not the least important among its exhibits will be that of Henry Ford's own solution to the farmer's problem; he will show the farmer exactly how to get his land to himself by using and processing soybeans.

The great packing companies, represented jointly last year, have come separately, and in a big way. Swift and Company has the entire 3rd street bridge for exhibits, and has built a huge band shell and amphitheater for free concerts. For ten weeks, beginning July 1, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will play there twice a day. Armour and Company tells the story of the progress of the industry in its large new building in the lake front. Wilson and Company has part of a packing plant actually in operation.

Standard Oil (Indiana) will present daily, in a new arena, a daring animal act with thirty-three lions and tigers performing in the same cage at the same time. Science will be made to perform seeming miracles every day in a scientific revue in the court of the Hall of Science. There will be plenty of free entertainment elsewhere on the grounds.

Railroad Rates Lower. The new Fair has more restaurants, better equipped to serve tremendous crowds. Meals will be lower in price; in fact, it will be possible to buy a meal on the Fair grounds for as little as fifteen cents.

Rates for buses, lagoon boats, rickshaws and roller chairs have been reduced; in some cases they have been cut in half. Eighty per cent of all the tickets will be free.

Eastern, western and central railroad lines have announced that rates, in general, are even lower this year than last. In many cases with special-rate tickets honored in Pullmans as well as in day coaches. Bus lines have announced special low rates and will have air lines.

Aid Auto Travel. Hotel accommodations can be had in Chicago for as little as one dollar a day. Auto camps and private homes will accommodate visitors at correspondingly low rates.

Fourteen major highways lead to Chicago. Eight thousand Ford dealers throughout the United States have been organized into a giant travelers aid organization to assist people in planning trips to the Fair. Oil companies have turned their gasoline stations into World's Fair information booths.

(By Arthur Glidden, County Agricultural Agent)

There has been more or less said lately about emergency feed crops. Emergency crops are fine things to cut down on the feed bills for next winter, but how about making some plans for a more permanent feed supply. In other words, there is no time like the present to make that seeding of alfalfa that you have been thinking about. Alfalfa is well adapted to northern Michigan and will produce a larger tonnage of high protein hay than any other crop that can be grown.

Alfalfa, as you all know, requires a sweet soil. It will sprout and begin to grow on almost any kind of soil, but if lime is needed the first winter usually fixes it good and proper. There are two ways to find out whether or not your soil needs lime, one way is to plant the alfalfa and see if it winter-kills or just naturally peters out and the other way is to have your soil tested. The matter of testing your soil is a simple process. Just collect a small sample from several places in the field and bring them to the County Agent and let him worry about what should be done after that. It is also a good plan to take at least one sample from the subsoil as a sweet subsoil will make a considerable difference in lime requirements. The unfortunate thing about our soils is that the alfalfa should not be seeded for a year after the lime or manure has been applied, as it takes that long for the lime or manure to work on the soil acidity. If you have any reason to think that your soil might be acid or sour, have it tested before you spend good money for alfalfa seed for that soil.

A cheap and efficient method of storing silage is being demanded by Northern Michigan dairymen following the dairy feeding experiment, which showed sunflower silage equal to or slightly superior to root crops in feeding milking cows. The silo provides a means of storing and preserving succulent roughage for feeding farm animals, especially in winter when fresh green feed is not obtainable. It is adapted to all parts of Michigan where corn or sunflowers can be successfully grown.

There are several types of silos which have proven to be satisfactory, the most common ones being concrete, wood stave, concrete stave, hollow tile and the trench. All except the trench silo are about equal as far as freezing and preservation of ensilage is concerned. They vary somewhat in cost.

The concrete silo has the advantage of the other types in permanency and stability. The principal objection is the first cost, which is usually greater than the other kinds. A concrete silo will last many years as there is little danger of its burning or blowing down, rotting out, or being attacked by vermin.

The wood stave silo has become popular due to its cheapness, ease and quickness with which it is constructed. Generally speaking, the wood stave silo excels in these three particulars. They are usually considered as more of a temporary structure as sooner or later they blow down or otherwise get out of repair in fifteen or twenty years.

The hollow tile, like the solid concrete or concrete stave, is more permanent than the wood stave, but it, too, has a greater first cost. The trench silo is rapidly gaining in popularity due to its low first cost, its freedom from freezing, its low machinery cost, and its ease of construction.

Primarily, the trench silo consists of a long trench in the ground lined with concrete, or stone, and covered by a simple removable roof. All of the labor of building can be done by the dairyman and one helper. A team or tractor, a plow, shovel, and scraper are all the tools necessary. A concrete mixer saves time and labor, but is not essential.

A satisfactory trench silo made of squared cedar posts has been in use in Iron County the past three years. Timbers four inches square were placed along the base of the outside wall and the posts set upright on these timbers. The cracks were then plastered to exclude the air. A concrete floor and a removable roof completed the building.

Two things should be kept in mind when locating this type of silo: drainage and convenience. It should be placed on a high, dry, well drained site as close to the barn as possible. If a bank is available near the barn, the silo should be so located that it is readily accessible. If possible, the bottom of the silo should be level with the floor of the barn, so that a feed cart can be run directly from the barn to the silo. Sometimes one wall of the silo, with removable lean-to roof covering it. The most successful ones have sloping walls to insure better packing along the sides. One foot of slope for each eight feet in depth is sufficient.

Some silos have been made by simply digging the trench and using the clay banks as walls. Usually this keeps the ensilage in good condition the first year, but very poorly the following years. This is due, probably, to bacteria which get in the soil and cause considerable spoilage along the sides. It is more satisfactory to build up a permanent structure out of stone or concrete. The stone wall should be plastered so as to form a smooth surface to exclude all air pockets.

One of the outstanding advantages of the trench silo is its freedom from freezing. All of the upright silos, whether made of wood stave or concrete, freeze more or less during the winter season. The trench silo, being underground, or banked if above ground, seldom freezes even in severe winter weather. This is a decided advantage in favor of the trench silo.

Another advantage is the fact that it can be filled with any type of cheap cutting box as no blower is necessary. Where practical, the cutting box may be set directly over the silo on planks or timbers and the ensilage allowed to drop into the trench. The ensilage should be thoroughly packed by tramping with horses, sheep or young cattle. It must be remembered that the trench silo requires more packing than the upright as it does not have the weight of the ensilage itself to do the packing.

There is still time to plant sunflowers for silage, which should provide considerable forage for winter feeding. If planting is done now, plans can be made to constructing the silo later in the season and have it ready for the harvest season.

Archer Fish

In the seas around the East Indies is found the archer fish. It is so called because of its ability to shoot drops of water, like bullets, at insects three or four feet away. After thus knocking its prey down to the surface of the water, it is a simple matter for the fish to gather in its meal.

What Other Editors Have To Say

KNOW WHAT THEY KNOW

Fred D. Keister of Ionia, in his column "Michigan Men and Affairs" says:

The remarkable turn-out of property owners at the special election—and the solid support of opinion they registered is something the political leaders of Michigan will do well to study with care.

Our own interpretation is that these property owners, both urban and rural, represent the largest single block of independent voting strength in the state, and that they vote intelligently in support of their own interests regardless of party lines and personalities.

These are the same voters who placed Comstock in the Governor's chair on his promise of lower taxes and a mortgage moratorium. They are the ones who voted for the 15 mill amendment, and who reserved for themselves the right to decide all bond issue questions. And they are the voters who will decide the election this fall by voting as a unit for the party that gives greatest promise of protecting the home owner and taxpayer.

HAVE WE LOST ANYTHING?

Governor Comstock is quoted as saying that because of the state taxpayers having voted down the bonding proposal Michigan will lose a great advantage which would result from getting 30 per cent of the construction costs of projects as a gift under the PWA. The terms of the PWA call for a 30 per cent free donation on all projects that are approved by the PWA directors. Thirty per cent of thirty-eight million dollars is quite a sum and if the governor is correct in his statement, it might be that the state did miss a great opportunity. But, did it?

If the case of Crystal Falls city is any criterion, the state did not lose. Here's the story. Crystal Falls had on its program of improvements a water tank. The project was mapped out years ago in the continued program of improvements adopted by the city commission. It didn't come up because of the PWA.

Estimates received on the job prior to bids being asked for totaled in the neighborhood of $10,000. When a representative of the state PWA board visited Crystal Falls about a year ago and explained the 30 per cent gift the commission decided to drop the negotiations it had on and take up the PWA proposal. Then the red tape commenced to unwind. It was learned that if any gift under the PWA was allowed (the city was in position to pay cash for the 70 per cent) the project must be constructed under the direction of a PWA selected engineer; the workmen employed must be selected from lists supplied and must be paid the wages set up by the rules of the department and must work only the hours set out for them. When all of the details had been gathered in and bids were asked for under the set-up the commissioners were astonished to find that the total cost of the project would be in the neighborhood of $14,000. That would mean about $11,000 for the city to pay.

So, the commission decided to start out on its own and find out what the job could be completed for with the city paying all. The bids were slightly more than $9,000 and the commission was not long in coming to the decision that the PWA didn't mean anything and that the job could be done with greater satisfaction by the city paying all.

That's one experience. If other projects are handled in a like manner—if the PWA means simply more money spent in a community to get the same results that less money locally spent will attain, has there been any loss?—Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

TWO MILLION MORE GONE FLOOEY

The Mich. Bell Telephone Co. is getting sick of the perennial audit of its books at Lansing. The public got sick of it long ago. For 14 years these audits have been in progress most of the time, and $2,000,000 of the people's money has been spent on them. The company now asks a little relief, as the state has made no substantial or practical use of anything it has found out in spending that two million. Wonders if it wouldn't be cheaper to support the auditors on the welfare?—Bobby Norval.

The Michigan State Normal College maintains its low tuition fees and its high academic standing by the use of funds provided by the state.

Chaplain's Weekly News Letter

Fourth Forestry District

Camp Harrison is moving on Thursday to Kenneth, Michigan—a distance of 140 miles. What will become of the beautiful buildings?

I took with me to Harrison a few instrumentalists—consisting of Messrs. Mount, Caron and Goodman after hearing them play at Camp Houghton Lake. Harrison was glad to have this added feature at its farewell service. Educator Mount has the nucleus of a good orchestra started. Had lunch with Capt. and Mrs. Neimz at 684 and was told (the first fish story of the season) that the good Captain, assisted by two members of his organization, had brought home enough fish on opening day to supply a fish dinner to the entire camp. It is rumored that Dr. (Sunshine) Dana, instead of going with 1613 on its "trek" northward will stay behind and be attached to 684. Capt. Neimz reports that he is using the fire barrel water (which was kept from freezing all winter by the addition of calcium chloride) to dampen the road in front of headquarters and the First Aid building. It works better than flakes. It hurts Capt. Neimz's thrifty disposition to throw away scraps from the kitchen. He wishes that he might be permitted to feed the refuse, instead, to little twenty-pound pigs and then see them fatten into two-hundred pounders. We congratulate Mrs. Neimz on her birthday this week. By way of celebration, Capt. and Mrs. Neimz will go on leave to Chicago this week end.

The boys of 684, 672, 1611 and 681 CCC camps have recently been called out to help put out forest fires. It should be comforting to the people of the state of Michigan and of the country at large to know that these able-bodied men are being trained in the art of fire-fighting and respond with alacrity when those conflagrations occur which are feared so much and which work such costly damage.

Last Saturday night a dinner, beautiful in its appointments, was served at the Log Cabin in Gaylord for about twenty officers, forestry superintendents, and their wives stationed in the upper part of the district. The feast was originally planned as a farewell testimonial for Lt. McDermott but when it was found that he could not attend it was turned into a welcoming dinner for Lt. Wahlbom who is taking his place. Speeches were made and Capt. Vane, acting as toastmaster, felicitated Dr. and Mrs. Igloe and Lt. and Mrs. Shover on their recent-observed wedding anniversaries. It is hoped that a similar "get-together" will be arranged in some corner of the district every now and then. Dr. and Mrs. Igloe are leaving this week for a month's trip on which they will visit Texas and Mexico.

Mrs. Vane, the wife of our District Commander has joined her husband for a week's visit. She will also spend sometime visiting relatives living in this part of Michigan.

Each camp is busy polishing up its baseball diamond and getting a winning team lined up. When shall we start the inter-camp tournament?

The wrestling team of 672 will soon be able to take on all challengers (including Fife Lake)—so Lt. Hartley reports.

The farm home of Guy Leverton and family in Beaver Creek burned to the ground at 2:00 o'clock last Sunday afternoon together with all the contents, except for the clothes the family had on, and they saved their car. The fire was caused from a spark from the chimney that caught on the roof and when noticed was beyond control. It was a total loss to Mr. Leverton and his family as they had no fire insurance. The weather was dry and it was very windy that day so it took no time until the place was in ruins. Sparks flew long distances even into the field of T. Christofferson, where a pile of stumps was ignited and burned. The family were left without a home and are being befriended by Grayling people.
